

Special Education - Transition Program at the High School

Purpose of the Program:

Part of special education is to provide programming for students who are 18-21 years of age, have an Intellectual/Developmental Disability and have completed all academic coursework. Within the program focus is to provide training to expand their independence, self-advocacy, employment, and social and community integration. The program does not need to be held only on school grounds, but can expand into the community.

Age Level of the Students:

18-21

Goal of the Program:

The goal is for students to increase their independence in the environments they will be accessing throughout their lives.
